ISOLATION DOESN'T WORK

America May Take Business
Away from Great Britain

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Despite the outward
appearance of optimism and uncon-
cern, there is a feeling of real nervousness here over the effects of the British coal strike on American trade.

The theory that the United States
can get along without the rest of the world in a comfortable policy of isolation
which has so often been advanced
in the American senate is encountering
some adverse winds. The White House has officially indicated that it was not believed that exports of foodstuffs would be affected because the latter had been exempted from the
transportation embargo but in the confusion of a general strike there is bound to be delay and congestion.

HITS COTTON EXPORTS

It is officially admitted that cotton exports may be diminished. Great Britain is America's biggest customer
for cotton. And it is the same with respect to exports generally. The British buy large part of American surplus.
Under the circumstances cancellations of orders are feared which may cost the American producers considerable money. Department of commerce officials have been loath to make any estimates as to what the British coal strike would cost the American people.

Fortunately, the losses come at a time when American industry is in an excellent position to meet them
for there has been a noticeable improvement in business conditions and particularly in the export trade.

But it is not Great Britain alone
which may affect the course of American exports. If the British are tied up for any length of time in a general strike they will cut off their purchases of raw materials from other countries in the world. The possibilities of a business depression
temporarily in other countries which
in turn buy goods from America are admitted.

MORE TRADE FOR U. S.

It is an ill wind, however, which blows no good. Some of the British manufactured products will have been delayed and the consumers will not wish to wait on delayed British production. This means that the American products will get orders
from other countries which ordinarily are placed in Great Britain. The steel industry in the United States,
for instance, is expected to profit by the British strike. The British themselves will be behind when the strike
is over and there are indications that some orders for emergency use will be placed which may in the aggregate
help to make up for temporary
losses in the export figures.

On the whole the inter-relationship of British industrial conditions
with the American economic situation
is being forcibly brought to the attention of the American government
and the incident will not be lost on those who have been urging that American foreign policy should always be conducted with an eye to the continuance of stable political relations because an unsettled Europe may mean a depressed business
situation on this side of the Atlantic.

HOUSE PROBES CHARGES AGAINST COMMISSIONER

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The
house Thursday ordered an investigation of the charges against Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning of the District of Columbia to ascertain whether they constitute grounds for impeachment proceedings.

SECRETARY ANDREWS EXPLAINS DRY BILLS

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of dry
law enforcement, explained Thursday
to the Senate prohibition committee
the pending administration measures
designed to tighten up enforcement
of the Volstead act.

WOMEN HAVE AS MUCH

MEN, DOCTOR SAYS

Rochester, Minn.—(AP)—Women
have as much right to smoke as men, in the opinion of Dr. William J. Mayo, the famous Rochester
surgeon. Dr. Mayo expressed this opinion
in a brief address before a regional conference of social workers here Wednesday night. Many things
have come into life in recent years
to add to the happiness of individuals and in doing so have brought longer life, he declared.

START PROBE OF ILLINOIS PAROLE PLAN

Witness Tells Prosecutors
Pardons Were Obtained
Through Weil

Chicago—(AP)—Investigations of
pardons and paroles granted recently
have been started by State's Attorney
Robert E. Crowe, aided by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, as a result of information obtained from
two men questioned by the officials.
It was indicated that the information would be presented Thursday
to the special crime grand jury
which is delving into the McSwig-
gin murder case.

The two questioned at the state's attorney's office were Major M. A.
Messelin, former superintendent of
the Volunteers of America Hope House for paroled convicts, and now
head of an engineering concern, and Lucas Pollack.

Pollack said he had obtained the
freedom of his nephew, Ralph Steiner, confined at Pontiac, through the aid of Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil,
who by an odd coincidence was convicted Wednesday in federal court of disposing of stolen mail loot.

MESSELIN'S "KIDS" FRIEND
POLLACK, WHO WAS SUBPENNA TO APPEAR BEFORE THE CRIME GRAND JURY
SAID THAT WEIL TOLD HIM TO SEE WEIL'S FRIEND MAJOR MESSELIN.

Messelin made a strenuous denial
that he had ever engineered pardons
or paroles. He said his social service work was done for humanitarian purposes only.

Police guarded the offices of the engineering corporation while copies
of all books of the firm were made
by attaches of the state's attorney
office. The prosecutors announced
they found hundreds of entries
showing the purchase of stock, giving
the amounts paid, and showing the names and addresses of the purchasers. Mr. Crowe said the stock purchasers would be questioned as
to the circumstances under which they bought.

Messelin was head of the Hope
House for 13 years.

DIRIGIBLE ARRIVES IN NORTHERN NORWAY

Bellair, Ohio—(AP)—The dirigible Norge arrived at Vadsø, northern Norway at 4:30 Thursday morning. The airplane which is to endeavor to take the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition across
the north pole from Spitsbergen, left
its hangar at Trondheim, a suburb of Lec-tingrad, Wednesday morning.

The Norge made the flight between Trondheim and Vadsø, a distance of about 100 miles northward as the crow flies,
in about 18 hours. The ship left Trondheim at 9:38 Wednesday morning,
the final jump of the dirigible to Kingfisher, Spitsbergen lies about 700 miles across the arctic ocean. The start across the pole will be made from King's Bay. Just when commander Nobile intends to leave Northward has not yet been announced.

AUTO HITS STREET CAR AND INJURES 4 PERSONS

Milwaukee—(AP)—William Schumann
was seriously injured when he was struck by an automobile as he alighted from a street car. Charles Petrini, the driver of the machine
attempting to miss Schumann, swung
the machine to the left of street and collided with the street car. Petrini and his companion Frank Schuster were cut and bruised. Carl Handan who was riding on the front platform of the street car was badly cut. All of the men are in a hospital. The crash
demolished the automobile and smashed
in the front end of the street car.

COUNCIL HEARS RESOLUTION TO BOND FOR PARKS

Accept Park Board's Offer to Put Tourist Camp in Alicia
Park

A resolution to bond the city for $20,000 to finance the park board improvement program at Pierce park was presented to the common council Wednesday evening.

No action was taken, however, as the resolution must be published twice before a vote can be taken on it. The council must act on it with in the next 60 days, and a three-fourths vote is needed for adoption.

The resolution was prepared by Alfred C. Bossier, city attorney in accordance with instruction he received from the council at its last meeting.

The bonds, which would be known as Pierce Park Improvement Bonds, would be redeemed in 20 years and would pay interest at the rate of 4% per cent. One-twentieth of the principal would be redeemed annually.

The tourist campsite will be located in Alicia park north and west of the road running through the park. Use of this territory for a campsite was offered the council by the park board and accepted Wednesday night.

The city had practically completed arrangements with Lawrence Lutz for the use of a portion of his land along the Fox river and south of the park but the latter refused to agree to several terms in the contract and the deal fell through. Lutz wanted a higher rental for his land and did not want to grant the five year extension if the city should desire it, the city attorney explained.

Alderman Thompson urged that the council have some definite understanding with the park board before accepting the offer to place the campsite there, pointing out that the offer was only for one year and that it hardly would be worth while to make the improvements for such a short time.

Alderman Steinhauer drew the council's attention to the money which the city would save if it accepted the park board's offer. He stated that Lutz was asking an annual rental of more than $600, while the site in Alicia park could be obtained free of charge.

Be Careful With Fire In Spring Housecleaning

Appleton residents are urged to take precautions against fire while doing their spring housecleaning in a letter received by the local fire department from the National Board of Fire Underwriters, with headquarters in New York City. The letter makes clear the fire hazards of the spring cleaning and tells how they can be avoided. The letter follows:

We don't suppose there's a single home in Appleton where some attention is not given to renovation during the first sunny days of spring. Much rubbish and litter of all kinds accumulates during the winter months when removal and airing is not easy, and it is natural that in the present season the broom and the ash-can should be much in evidence.

"It's an excellent habit, too, only we must caution people against one or two fire hazards that a little care and common sense will avoid, and in so doing we'd like to have people realize that we speak from long experience supported by the records of departments.

CLEAN PIPES
"Don't neglect the chimney or the smokepipes connected with your furnace. All winter long they've been coated with soot from the soft coal burned. They will be found in many cases almost completely choked up. If chimney and furnace pipes are not cleaned out we can predict with certainty many hundreds of destructive fires when cool weather comes round again—needless fires, every one of them.

"By all odds the most convenient time to get rid of this soot is during the spring cleaning season while it is still soft. Use a wrapped brick lowered into the chimney on a rope long enough to reach the bottom of the flue. First take down the smokepipe and clean it out.

"We will continue to have too many fires anyway without piling on top of them scores of easily avoidable blazes, such as chimney and flue outbreaks, always are.

CAREFUL WITH FIRES
"Probably the worst hazard connected with spring cleaning comes from the burning of refuse in dangerous places—too close to fences and buildings, or in the midst of dry grass or when there are high winds blowing which may carry sparks and embers long distances.

"In burning rubbish take care to set the fires far enough from buildings to eliminate the risk of direct contact with the flames. Be especially careful of burning over dry grass and stubble.

"No outdoor fire—whatever its purpose—should ever be started when the wind is strong, and a filled water bucket should always be kept handy.

WELFARE WORK RISING TO STATUS OF PROFESSION

"Welfare work is becoming more and more generally recognized as a necessary profession," said Malcolm S. Nichols, secretary of the Family Welfare Association of Milwaukee, in a talk before college students in Lawrance Memorial Chapel on Wednesday morning.

Two kinds of welfare work were explained by Mr. Nichols: Prevention and cure of diseases, relief of poverty and the improvement of housing conditions all fall under the head of community work. Individual or group work, which is the second type, includes such things as settlement work and personal aid.

Mr. Nichols pointed out the many opportunities for students in the field of social service and stated that the work itself was a challenge to the finer type of manhood and womanhood. Mr. Nichols came to Lawrence under the auspices of the department of sociology.

What is the correct way to buy Coffee

Surely not by the price per pound!

The price per pound does not mean much. It is the price per cup. What you are interested in is, how many cups of Good Coffee will this pound of coffee I am about to purchase produce?

For example: A pound of ordinary coffee will produce 35 cups of only ordinary coffee. A pound of Real high grade coffee that is fresh roasted every week, will produce from 45 to 50 cups of Real good coffee.

Our SHERMAN HOUSE BRAND Coffee is in the class that will give the most cups per pound, and figuring the cost per cup, is the cheapest to buy. One trial will convince you. MAYOR FROWNS ON MORE BONDS

City Too Close to Bonding Limit Now, Rule Tells Council

The present city administration will be conducted along as economical lines as possible, Mayor Albert C. Rule told the council at its meeting Wednesday evening.

He told the council not to approach nearer the bond limit of the city, warning that he would exercise his veto power if necessary.

"We cannot approach the bond limit of the city very much closer than we are now and consider it a busineslike venture," he told the council. "If the council insists on floating too many large bond issues, I will have to exercise my veto power. The city is bonded enough now and the amount cannot safely be increased very much."

The mayor's statement was prompted by a talk by Alderman McGilligan, who said that petitions for sewers from residents on a number of streets had been received a long time ago but that nothing had been done about them as yet. He said the people on these streets had been asking for sewers for several years, and concluded with the statement he thought it was time something was done.

Alderman McGilligan's talk alone might not have resulted in bringing forth an opinion from the mayor, but much of the meeting had been spent in discussing proposed projects which either would be financed directly out of the city's coffers or by floating bond issues.

HAMS OUTBOWL CHAMPS TO WIN LION'S TITLE

Team No. 2 of the Appleton Lion's club won first place in the Lion's bowling tournament in Oshkosh Tuesday evening. Team No. 1, which was composed of the "champ bowlers" fell down on the job and hit the maples for fourth place. Team No. 2 won cup emblematic of the championship of Lion's clubs in the valley. Twelve bowling teams from Fond du Lac, New London, Green Bay and Oshkosh were entered in the contest. The games were rolled on St. Mary alleys as a part of a general tournament being held there. The eight alleys were given over for the entire evening to the Lion's club of the valley.

Members of Team No. 1 were William Jacobson, James Kamba, H. W. Maffet, Dr. W. J. Frawley and David Smith. Members of Team No. 2 were T. J. Long, E. Cahill, Dr. A. E. Adsit, F. N. Belanger and R. M. Connolly.

STEPPING ON INDUSTRY

Eight states in the Union yielded less
federal income taxes in the March collection this year than in 1925. Wisconsin
was one of these. None of the other states
reporting smaller payments is industrial, excepting Massachusetts. The reason given for reduced income in that state is
industrial warfare, and reduced manufacturing operations. We cannot attribute the reduction in Wisconsin to similar causes. There have been no strikes or lockouts or other troubles here that would impair earnings.The nation as a whole has gone through a year of extraordinary prosperity. We are in the midst of great and continuing activity, but it is significant that in the face of these conditions Wisconsin has not only lagged industrially, but is producing less net returns. We do not have to go far to see visible evidences of this situation.The question is whether it pays the people
at large to impose burdens upon industry which it cannot meet and successfully compete with outside industries: whether policies of government toward manufacturers, including taxation, which would tend to drive capital from the state and retard the development of enterprise with-
in the state is for the benefit of anyone.
Least of all can we see where the work-
ingman profits from a policy that cri-
ples industry and reduces its earnings,
frequently forcing it into shutdowns and
losses.It is our understanding that labor
thrives more from industrial prosperity
than from depression, that wages are better, employment more regular and the probability of increased wages greater.
But we may be wrong in this. Perhaps the Wisconsin policy of stepping on manufacturers with both feet, and of kicking
them when they are down, is the better
for the wage earner, but we doubt it.

ROOSEVELT MEDALS

The three Roosevelt medals awarded
this year to Admiral Sims, Albert J. Beveridge and Daniel Carter Beard have gone where those who remember Roosevelt will say he would be pleased to have them. In fact, through all the history of this token it has seemed to be the policy
of the memorial award committee to judge through the mind of Mr. Roosevelt, as revealed in his lifetime likings and the recorded expression of his ideals.Consequently, perhaps the medals will have for the nation a greater significance
as recalling Roosevelt's tastes and principles than as emphasizing the greatness of
the recipients.Upon the reverse of the great gold discs appear these words: "If I must choose between righteousness and peace, I choose righteousness." That is a decidedly worthy sentiment, but somewhat shop-
worn nowadays among nations, because
experience has shown that the definition
of righteousness is one any nation can
make, and devoutly believe, when it wants to go to war. The idea is one better softpedaled, it may be, than recalled and emphasized; just as Stephen Decatur's
"Right or wrong, my country," is a splendid sentiment in a crisis but a poor
one to hang on the wall for a constant motto.Nevertheless, in Roosevelt's vigorous times, without the World War's experience behind us, a most vital and constructive application was undoubtedly made of the belligerent righteousness hefavored. It had its way in several crises, naval particularly, where the same methods might not prevail and certainly would not be applied today.Roosevelt was a friend and admirer in life of Admiral Sims, of Beveridge and of Beard. He was a personal backer of the kind of national defense, the kind of vigorous politics and patriotic writing, and
the kind of outdoor training for youth upheld respectively by these three noted
men. It is worth while to recall these Roosevelt enthusiasms through the grant
of a continuing medal in gold for their protagonists of the day. As time goes on some of the beloved Roosevelt tendencies,
like that expressed in the medal's motto,
may lose favor; but a vast majority of
his influence in American family, business and public life were entirely whole-
some and are worthy of perennial recollection.PRAT DON'T GET SICK: HERE'S SCHICK
AND DICKA child or adult has more or less natural immunity if it is not actually "resistance" against
certain diseases, such as diphtheria, scarlet fever,
pneumonia, and so far as we know this immunity,
whether inherited or acquired, is always specific.
That is to say, it is a natural reaction to the germs
of the disease in question or to a toxin or other product of the specific germs. There is little or no
scientific evidence that one's natural immunity
against any disease may be appreciably diminished
by any influence other than the specific germs or their products. There is no evidence, for example,
that foul air, dampness, exposure to cold or any environment factor like that will in any circumstances
diminish an individual's natural immunity against
pneumonia or "grip" or any other respiratory disease. But there is good scientific evidence that the process of developing immunity is aided or
favored by certain positive environmental factors.
We know that the positive influence of the ultra-
violet rays of sunlight on the skin distinctly enhances the development of immunity against the various respiratory infections. In fact there is good reason to believe that no definite immunity against
these respiratory infections—diphtheria, scarlet
fever, tuberculosis, pneumonia, influenza, measles,
alleged "colds"—is possible without the influence of sunlight. I am trying to make clear the important distinction between immunity and the fanciful conception of "resistance" for it seems essential to understand that none of the factors which are popularly believed to "lower resistance" has any influence upon immunity.The Schick test determines whether an individual has any immunity against diphtheria toxin, or in other words it shows whether there is any natural antitoxin in the individual's blood. A minute quantity of diphtheria toxin is injected into the skin with a fine needle. If the individual is immune to diphtheria, that is, if there is antitoxin naturally present in his blood, no reaction occurs. If the individual is not immune, has no natural antitoxin,
a hives-like reaction appears at the site of injection
within 24 to 48 hours, and gradually disappears in the course of a week. There is no pain and no other trouble whatever. Children should be tested in this way before they start going to school, and
every child that reacts positively to the Schick test
should be immunized against diphtheria by means of the toxin antitoxin. When these measures are universally applied it is possible to stamp diphtheria
out of the community and save the lives of children
who would otherwise become the victims of the disease.The Dick test is one made in a similar way, but it is an index of susceptibility to scarlet fever. It is probably not so reliable an index as is the Schick test for diphtheria. For one thing, in some cases of scarlet fever without rash the persons infected (nurses and ward patients in a general hospital) had shown negative Dick reactions before they contracted the scarlet fever, as Drs. Stevens and Doeche recently reported. Another reason why the scarlet fever test is not so reliable as the diphtheria
test is that there are probably several strains of streptococci which may produce scarlet fever and
of course a toxin or antitoxin of one strain would not be specific for another strain. The test for scarlet fever susceptibility and the immunization
treatment for individuals who react positively will
both be improved before long and become as useful
as the diphtheria test and immunization is.

UPON PLEA OF GUILTY TO POSSESSION OF LIQUOR

Special to Post-Crescent

Wausau—The legal machinery of circuit court has been working
rapidly since the opening Monday.
Two naturalization cases were acted upon and the applicants, Charles Sarmiento Thomson and Albert
Louis Bloch received full citizenship.
A settlement was effected in the case of the State vs Edward Hummel, charged with bawdry, out of court.The case of Henry Preuss, charged
with embezzlement, was continued,
as were the cases of the State vs
Clarence Barr, charged with abandonment, and State vs Bernie Paulsen, charged with abandonment.Before coming up for trial, the case of Gerold Fisher, charged with abandonment, was settled. The State vs Ernest Manske, charged with abandonment, was continued
for the term. Marshall Ehle of Wau-paca, charged with illegal possession
and transportation of liquor, also
was continued. Rudolph Martin, charged with malicious injury to an automobile, pleaded guilty. The court set a fine of $10 and the defendant was ordered to pay costs
amounting to $15.42. F. J. Speigle
pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal
possession and traffic in intoxicating
liquor. Judge Park assessed a fine
of $250 or in default the defendant
will serve five months in the county jail. It was expected the sum would be paid.A real surprise was sprung in the Tuesday afternoon session when Martin Kolosso of New London, who was being tried on a statutory charge, changed his plea during the course of the trial. All evidence had been taken, the district attorney, Otto
L. Olen, of Clintonville had completed his plea for the prosecution,
and the attorney for Mr. Kolosso, Gustave J. Kelly, announced his client would change his plea from one of not guilty to guilty. The court ordered Kolosso to pay the cost of the trial, $25 for doctor bill
and lying in expenses, $10 per month
until the child became six years of age and $15 per month until it became 16 years of age.Roy Rickaby, sentenced to one to three years at Green Bay reformatory on a charge of forgery, was paroled to the state board of control.Besides the much tried Arthur La-Valley case that went to trial Wednesday morning other cases to be tried at this term: State vs Leslie Kolosso vs John Peterson, charged
with abandonment and State vs
Herbert Celle, charged with abandonment. State vs John Peterson, charged

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 9, 1901

Work was commenced that morning on the new store building being put up by August Kneuppl on College ave., near Durkee-st. The building was to have a sandstone front. A store was to occupy the first floor and there was to be an eight room flat on the second floor. The building was to cost $5,000.A project to build a $40,000 opera house in Appletion was under way. A company had been formed consisting of John S. Van Nortwick, A. J. Smith, J.
Sherman, J. A. Hawes, Lamer Olmstead, C. B.
Pride and Charles F. Pfister of Milwaukee who had subscribed $20,000 of stock. An effort was to be made to sell 1,000 tickets for the opening performance at $10 apiece. If the tickets were sold the theatre was to be built at once.Miss Eda Roemer had returned to Chicago after

Shiocton—Word has been received here by relatives of the recent marriage of Leslie Budd of Iola to Miss Betty Antonson, daughter of Mrs.
Catherine Antonson of Waupaca. The wedding took place at the Central Methodist church in Iola. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Arpke of the Ebenezer Reformed church, at two o'clock. The bride was attended by Miss Viola Peik, sister of the groom, and the best man was Walter Hibbard of Milwaukee. After a reception and supper, Mr. and Mrs.
Peik left for Milwaukee, where they will make their home.The bride is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Joseph Brant of Granton and she lived in Milwaukee for some time.The bridegroom is the son of John Peik, and is a graduate of the Chilton
high school with the class of 1922.
Since leaving school he has been employed in the Allis-Chalmers plant in

ORGANIST SHOWS RARE SKILL IN RECITAL HERE

An enjoyable organ recital was given at the Methodist church Wednesday evening by William H. Barnes of First Baptist Church of Wilmette, Ill. had a well chosen program and he played it to the pleasure of every one. Mr. Barnes showed himself a master of the combination of colors into one beautiful tone. Simple or even contrasted simple colors make no appeal to him, all must be rich and beautiful. And everything was beautiful, there was nothing merely bizarre, no straining after effects, everything was natural and well chosen. Mr. Barnes was conspicuously at his ease as accompanist.

NEW ALMA MATER IS ADOPTED BY LOCAL COLLEGE

President Wriston and Professor Clippinger Select Winning Song

Lawrence college has adopted a new 'Alma Mater' about two months ago. President Henry M. Wriston announced a contest which was to bring forth a more stirring song to take the place of the present dirge. The contest was open to students and alumni of Lawrence, and a prize of $25 dollars was held up as an incentive.

And now the words have been chosen. President Wriston and Prof. F. W. Clippinger of the English department read all the entries, picked the chorus from one and the verses from another, and gave the school its hymn of praise. Eleanor McKittrick, '29, Duluth, and Helen Norris, '27, Manitowoc, are responsible for the chorus, and Anders D. Anderson, '02, of Appleton turned in the verses. As soon as suitable music is written the song will be learned by the student body and given a try-out in student chapel. This is the way the new song goes.

Hail to our Lawrence, resplendent in glory.

Crowned with the laurels of victories won.
Proud of the heroes who carry her colors.
Deeds of true valor are everywhere done.
Hail to the stream of the white on her banner.
Brought from the snow-haden hills of the north:
Blue that was torn from the vault of her heavens.
Symbols of courage and honor and worth.

Lawrence, we're blue and white,
Lawrence, we'll always fight,
Cheering with all our might.

For you, Rah, Rah!
Pledge our honor to her name,
Love and loyalty proclaim—
Forward, men, win the game!
Rah! Rah! Lawrence!
"Light, more light," Lawrentians say:
Fight, more fight, old team, today,
Blue and white will lead the way
To Victory, Lawrence.

Hail to our Lawrence, the source of our spirit
That knows not defeat, never yields to a foe.
We are the guardians of honored traditions.
Bearing her colors wherever we go,
Hail to the strength of her sons and their courage.
Fighting so bravely to bring her renown:
Ever, by love that shall live through the ages.
Bring them new laurels to add to her crown.

ALASKANS RAISE MINKS
Because two of three female minks on hand as a modest beginning last year produced fourteen pups—which brought good prices for breeding purposes—considerable interest is being shown in the eventualities of the present season season on a mink farm removed to Anchorage from out on Moose Creek. Eleven females and five males are being maintained while the furs are valuable no pelts are being taken as yet.

GRASS FIRES KEEP FIREMEN IN ACTION

More than half of the calls received by the fire department in April were to extinguish grass fires, the report for the month prepared by Louis McGillicuddy shows. The department answered 47 alarms during the month and 20 of these were caused by burning grass. Of the remaining fires seven were caused by sparks from burning chimneys, five were chimney fires and one a bon fire. Two more fires were started from unknown causes, and twice the department was called out by false alarms.

Samples of the work of every child enrolled in the school will be exhibited. A number of teaching demonstrations will be given so that parents may have the opportunity to see by what methods their children receive their education. The program will be concluded by physical education demonstration in the gymnasium in which both boys and girls gym classes will take part.

UNVEIL PICTURE ON VISITING DAY

Painting of Former President Woodrow Wilson Will Be Presented at School

Unveiling of a huge oil painting of former president Woodrow Wilson will be the principal feature of the first parents visiting day and annual exhibit of the Wilson junior high school Thursday evening. The painting has been on display for some time in the window of Schommer's Art shop, 114 S. Oneida-st. The picture is the gift of the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. It has been hung in the school assembly.

Mrs. A. H. Krugmeir, vice president of the local D. A. R. chapter, will preside at the presentation ceremony in the absence of the president H. W. Russell. The presentation speech will be given by Carrie Morgan and the speech of acceptance by Dr. M. H. Small, principal of the Adolph Jahnke, postoffice clerk who was given a temporary transfer from Appleton to the postoffice at Miami, Fla., in January, has been granted a transfer to this city, to become effective after May 15. Jahnke went to Florida in response to the request of the United States postmaster general at Washington, asking that unmarried clerks of at least three years experience make a temporary transfer to aid in handling the tremendous amount of mail at Miami. The volume of Miami mail has slackened considerably with the approach of the warm months. Postal employees are allowed three days with pay in which to make the trip.

HERO GIVES VILLAIN DOSE OF OWN MEDICINE

Fight fire with fire—a good principle to use in fighting for supremacy against rivals in any game.

The fire in the outdoor melodrama, "Hearts and Fists," at the New Bijou Friday and Saturday happens to be intrigue and subterfuge every step of the way. John Bowers, as the hero, has been left a nearly bankrupt lumber company by his father. Alan Hale, as the villain, is doing everything in his power to cause Bowers to forfeit the company. A note has to be met, orders must be filled, and Hale has stopped all possible credit. And to cap the climax and add insult to all injury, Marguerite de la Motte tells Bowers she can not marry him because she is engaged to his rival in business.

This complicated situation results in a stirring climax in which Bowers adopts Hale's high-handed tactics and beats the latter at his own game.

One of the biggest scenes is that in which Bowers and a powerful lumberjack, one of Hale's henchmen, have a terrific battle, each nearly killing the other. In the meantime, the heroine and Bowers' partner are traveling to his aid on an aerial cableway, hundreds of feet over the valley.

The story rises to a powerful climax, and ends with the happy wedding of the hero and heroine, to the great satisfaction of all concerned.

GAY PARIS SEEN AT ITS BEST IN PICTURE "PARIS AT MIDNIGHT"

Modern Paris—gay, glistening, care-free, voluptuous—has been transplanted to the screen in Frances Marion's new Metropolitan picture which will be on view at the Fischers Appleton theater Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Not only did Frances Marion make the production but she personally adapted the story of Balzac's "Pere Goriot."

Particularly colorful is the reproduction of the spectacular Beau Arts Ball, which has long been the most famous annual event of its kind in the world. The largest setting ever built at the Metropolitan Studios was designed and erected for this brilliant scene.

Marion Morgan, internationally famous dancer, supervised and directed the presentation of the dances and ballets. Every sort of masquerade costume imaginable was used by the scores of actors participating in the ball, taxing the wardrobe department to the utmost in designing and executing the fanciful creations.

ire today and tomorrow find that talented and charming actress again in the role of the neglected wife. She plays Joan Trevor, a Cinderella half-sister of Pauline Garon, whose favorite sport as Nathalie Trevor, is spoiling Joan's good time.

Nathalie persists in this childhood habit with Alan Thayer, played by Clive Brook, while he is Joan's sweetheart and even after he becomes Joan's husband. With only the weapons of a sweet-tempered, conscientious idealist, Joan fights the jazz-hound, shimmery tactics of imperious Nathalie and her faithful

NORTH SIDERS PLAN ELABORATE FAIR PROGRAM

REUTER HOME, CITY LANDMARK, IN NEW LOCATION

Business Men Arrange for
"Something Doing Every Minute"

Kaukauna — North side business men at a meeting Tuesday arranged a large program for the pig fair and street celebration to be held in Kaukauna on Saturday. Things will start to hum on the north side at 8:30 in the morning when the Wristington band will give a band concert on the streets. It will play all day. At 8:30 there will be a pigeon race between the Kaukauna and Green Bay pigeon clubs. From 10:30 to 3:30 grocers and barrel contest will be held and winners will be awarded prizes. Starting at 1:30 in the afternoon there will be a parade with clowns marching and an hour later singing and dancing will start on Wisconsin Avenue, with prizes being awarded to the best singers and dancers.

Philip La Follette, son of the late Robert M. La Follette and Herman Eckern, state attorney-general, are scheduled to speak from the veranda of the Congress hotel at 2:30. At 3:30 a barrel of groceries will be given away as prizes. The creased pigeon race is scheduled for 4 o'clock.

In the evening starting at 6:30 another parade will go through the streets. City organizations will march along with the band and merchants' trucks and cars. From 8 to 11 o'clock there will be a pavement dance on Wisconsin Avenue. The pavement will be waxed. A free home talent show will be given at the El-join theater from 9 to 12 o'clock.

ESTIMATE LOSS FROM FIRE AT ABOUT $50,000

Two Persons Are Burned and Two Are Overcome from Smoke

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — Loss from fire which started in the business section of this city on North Water-st at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon probably will amount to $50,000, according to estimates from property owners who suffered from the conflagration.

The fire started in an old wooden shop or storehouse in the rear of the Hammer bakery. It was first noticed by W. D. Sader, jeweler, whose business occupied the next door, and he stated that the first intimation he had that a fire was in progress was when he saw it burst out from the warehouse in the rear of bakery, immediately enveloping everything around it. There was a row of similar wooden shacks or warehouses along the rear of the buildings from the Swift Millinery to the Krause building.

The fire is thought to have started from ashes which it is said were thrown out over the back dock in the rear of the Hammer bakery into the river. Parts of the ashes are thought to have blown back unnoted onto the wooden platform where fanned by a stiff south wind the flames quickly spread all over the backs of the adjoining buildings, travelling westward, and eating into the business blocks from the rear.

Buildings damaged were the Hammer bakery, where the fire destroyed fixtures in the rear end of the building, part of the building itself, and a warehouse with a large amount of stock; the Horwitz millinery, where much stock was damaged from smoke and water; the Ross shoe store, where fire, smoke and water gutted the building and destroyed the stock; fixtures and building were damaged to a great extent by fire, smoke and water; the Kischke snow store, in which a small amount of stock was damaged by smoke and water, and the roof burnt; the Swift millinery, in which a large amount of stock; the Sader jewelry, which was the worst damaged and in which was the jewelry, gutted by fire, the latter being completely destroyed by the fire, along with its furnishings.

The Sader building suffered the most, the loss there running close to $20,000. Other losses ranged down from that figure, complete damage reports being impossible to obtain Wednesday night, until inventory has been taken.

A large number of sheds and warehouses along the backs of the buildings in the fire zone were destroyed, and the rear ends of the majority of the seven buildings damaged by fire; The Lyon flat, above the Swift millinery, and the Sader flat, above the jewelry, were gutted by fire, the latter being completely destroyed by the fire, along with its furnishings.

The Sader building suffered the most, the loss there running close to $20,000. Other losses ranged down from that figure, complete damage reports being impossible to obtain Wednesday night, until inventory has been taken.

The local fire department was called to the scene at 1:10, and remained for the greater part of the afternoon. The fire was under control in about half an hour and confined to the seven buildings. Calls were sent by Mayor E. W. Wendland, upon the request of several adjoining property owners, who, viewing the fire from a distance, thought there to be serious danger, to the Appleton and Clintonville departments, both of which replied promptly with a pumper.

Appleton made the run to New London in 24 minutes. However, as the blaze was under control, neither company was forced to use its apparatus in assisting the local department.

Members of the local department wish to thank the two departments for their quick response. New London had a F. D. W. pumper and steamer at work on the scene all during the fire, with a large number of extra firemen who had volunteered, working to check the blaze.

Several workers and firemen suffered minor burns about the face and hands. Two people were, however, severely burned, requiring medical aid. They were Mrs. Alvina Becker, who suffered severe burns to her chest, head and arms when she attempted to escape through a hallway from a flat in a burning building, and Steve Sullivan, who was badly burned about the head and right arm, when he entered one of the buildings in search of someone whom he believed to be entrapped.

Two of the firemen, Leo Herres and Clifford Dean, were overcome from smoke, but were revived in a short time.

EXPOSITION TO OPEN THURSDAY

Community Affair, Offering Varied Entertainment, Will Close Saturday

New London — The community exposition, which is being given by the Civic Improvement League for the benefit of the playground fund, will open in the Toddler Togs building on North Water-st Thursday evening. It will continue until Saturday evening.

The fair is being conducted much

the same manner as an indoor fair.

A large number of business men have taken booths in the building, where they will display merchandise. There will be various kinds of amusement offered, such as jitney dancing, vaudeville, fortune telling, and many other interesting amusements. Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra and city band.

The fair is to be held in the playground fund, but this is not sufficient with which to carry out the program which is contemplated, and in which two instructors will be hired to come here for the summer months for playground work. It is planned to make this exposition the greatest of its kind ever held here.

IN FORENSIC CONTEST

Special to Post-Crescent

New London — Miss Dorothy Bentz, a junior of the local high school, will represent New London in the district forensic contest at Oshkosh on Friday.

She will speak in the declamatory

contest with the selection, "Who's Afraid?"

Miss Bentz won the right to compete in the district meet for the local high school when she placed first in the sub-district contest several days ago at Omro. She also won second place in the league contest at Clintonville some time past. There will be five schools in competition in the various contests Friday. They will be New London, Omro, Menasha, Antigo and Princeton. The winners, one from each group, will enter the state contest at Madison on May 14.

MISS KELLY TO ATTEND MEETING OF JOURNALISTS

Appleton Girl Will Lead Round Table Discussion on Publicity Field

As a member of the national council of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional journalistic fraternity for women, Miss Muriel Kelly, Appleton, will lead a round table discussion on "The Publicity Field in a Small City" at the annual Convocation of Missouri Journalism week at Columbia, Mo. The big journalism program at the university extends from May 10 to 15 and includes the annual meetings of the Missouri Writers Guild, the Missouri Press Association, the alumni association of the University of Missouri Journalism school and the national council of Theta Sigma Phi. Miss Kelly will leave Sunday to be the guest of Miss Sara Lockwood, president of the fraternity, and of Gamma chapter of the fraternity.

The dates of the council meeting at which Miss Kelly will give the reports of the national treasurer and of the chapter discipline committee are May 11 and 15. Plans for the 1927 convention of the fraternity, which will be held in Minneapolis, will be made.

To the University of Missouri Journalism School goes the honor of having the biggest annual academic journalism event of the country. More than 100 editors, writers, publishers and advertising specialists will be speakers. Among them are Karl A. Hinkel, president of the United Press Association; Herbert Bayard Swope, executive editor of "The New York World"; Dr. James Melvin Lee, director of the department of journalism of New York University; Dr. Emil Dovrat, journalist of Berlin, Germany; Dana Gathin, author; Monte Crews, illustrator; Gene Fowler, editorial director for King Features syndicate; Homer Crox, novelist; J. Breckinridge Ellis, novelist; Emily Newell Blair, short-story writer; Margaret Hill McCarter, novelist. Among the features of the week will be the presentation to the school by its alumni of a picture of Dean Walter Williams, present head of the university journalism work. A King features banquet is one of the big social events, while a 150-mile drive through the foothills of the Ozarks is one of the pleasant side-trips.

COUNCIL VOTES TO GIVE GARBAGE TO FARMER

ADOPT PLAN SUGGESTED BY PROBE BOARD

Two Wisconsin Cities Sell Garbage to Farmers, Committee Says

No garbage disposal plant will be constructed here this year. Instead the city will enter into contract with a farmer for three years for disposal of garbage. This was decided by the common council at its meeting in the city hall Wednesday evening.

The action followed the recommendation of the garbage committee, of which Alderman P. Earle is chairman, pointing out that Appleton would be ahead financially to follow such a plan for two or three years.

The garbage committee has completed an investigation of garbage disposal plants, visiting four Wisconsin cities in the last few weeks. Two cities, Madison and Green Bay, dispose of their garbage in the manner recommended by the committee. It was learned this method is cheaper than a plant and is satisfactory to the municipalities concerned, according to Alderman Earle.

The city will contract with Frank C. Mueller, who lives on highway 47 about one mile north of the city, for the disposal of its garbage for three years. Garbage collections will be handled by the city and the garbage will be delivered to Mueller's premises.

FEAR HEALTH BOARD
Although emphasizing that he was not opposed to a system of garbage collection, Alderman George Richards opposed the committee's suggestions, declaring it might result in difficulties with the board of health. He expressed fear that health rules might be violated and that residents near the Muller premises might raise objections.

Professing sympathy with Mayor Rule's economy program which the mayor has stressed since taking office, Alderman Mark Cahn stated that the city should not construct a plant until it knew how much garbage it had to collect. He added that there were other things needed by the city much more than a garbage disposal plant at present.

"The issue was started by a sudden splash on the part of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce several months ago and was very obviously the local paper, the Appleton Post-Crescent," he said. "I printed a neat little ballot in one corner of a page for a number of days, inviting its readers to indicate their attitude on a garbage disposal plant, but in spite of all this publicity, only a little more than 200 votes were received. Certainly the vote was not representative of the city."

The majority of aldermen were in sympathy with the recommendation of the garbage committee and the proposal was adopted.

Other photographs in Tuesday's and Monday's paper were identified by Mrs. Frank Blohm, 924 Higgins Ave, Neenah as her son Carl, and by Mrs. William Donovan, 829 W. Fifth St. as her son Burton.

In addition to the $2 cash prize parents of children whose pictures appear in the Post-Crescent this week receive a pair of tickets to Fischer's Appleton theatre where Douglas MacLean's picture, "That's My Baby," will be shown from May 10 to 12. This picture is rollicking good fun, sure to get a laugh out of the most sedate theatregoer.

The photographer will make his last venture in quest of pictures on Friday so there still is a chance to have your offspring's photo appear in the paper in this contest which closes Saturday. A large number of pictures are taken daily and then three are chosen by lot for publication. Neither the photographer nor the Post-Crescent know whose picture is printed. It is all left to chance.

There is no red tape connected with this stunt. All that is necessary to win the $2 and lithic tickets is to identify the picture as that of your child, and say "That's My Baby. Bring the baby with you to make sure of identification."

Chamber of Commerce Committee Prepares for Green Bay Hearing

A detailed study of taxation in Wisconsin and particularly of the proposal to consolidate several of the Wisconsin state commissions has been made by the legislative committee of the chamber of commerce which will attend a hearing before the interim tax committee of the state legislature in Green Bay about May 27. The local committee concentrated its study on consolidation of commissions and has obtained information from a large number of states which recently did away with some of their boards.

Information was secured from Pennsylvania, Illinois, Idaho, New York and other states and a comprehensive report is being compiled.

The committee is bolstering itself with information sought in a questionnaire prepared by the legislature's committee so that it may back up its report in oral argument.

ROUNDS WOODS IS ACCEPTED AS PART OF MENASHA

Council Votes to Accept Plat
When Provision Is Made
for Street

Menasha—Rounds Woods addition on highway 15 on the outskirts of the city, recently purchased and platted by J. J. Wolf and A. Fitterer, was added to the city Wednesday night at an adjourned meeting of the common council. The tract includes more than ten acres.

When the addition came up for adoption at the monthly meeting the previous night action up it was held open until provision could be made for the opening of a 60-foot street through it which will be known as Wilson-ave. The name selected for the other new street was Lincoln-ave. The other streets are extensions of present streets.

The addition contains 71 lots.

Major Remmel announced the appointment of Louis J. Ellinger as a member of the combined recreation and park board to take the place of one of the newly appointed members who was unable to serve. Upon taking the matter up with the recreation and park board the council decided to make no appropriation to the Land o'Lakes association this year.

A lengthy discussion arose over the disposition of a poor charge, a man named Zilinski whom Outagamie-ct. turned over to the city Menasha, and who is at present at Theida Clark hospital. Upon making an investigation, however, the poor department found that he had not been a resident of Menasha for more than two years.

His place of residence has been traced to Greenville, Outagamie-ct. where he formerly lived. At one time he owned a piece of property in Menasha, but this he disposed of several years ago. The matter was finally disposed of by being referred to the poor committee and city attorney with power to act.

The city attorney was instructed to notify Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company to discontinue the practice of leaving freight cars on De-Pere-st. sidetrack over night. Upon motion it was decided to release the bond provided by the contractor who repaired Tayco-st. bridge.

SET UP LIGHTHOUSES AND BUOYS IN CHANNEL

Menasha—The government boat Fox passed through Menasha Thursday morning on its way to Lake Winnebago and the upper Fox river, distributing lighthouses and buoys. The trip will require about two days. The YELLOW STUB

by Ernest Lyon

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HENRY RAND, 33, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Milwaukee, where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints at hearing police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Milwaukee and is attacked by two men, but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy accuses her of marrying for money.

Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see a man they both recognize—as the man who got the stub, he as one of his assailants. The man escapes but they identify him by his police photo as IKE JENSEN.

Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartlessness causes her to break their engagement.

Olga tells Jimmy that Church, because she had refused to have anything to do with him, had caused her to lose several jobs.

Mary writes Jimmy a letter, explaining that she has broken with Church. The office boy sticks the letter in his pocket and forgets it.

Barry and Jimmy, coming from a theater, run across a street fight. One of the participants, after knocking the other down, starts to run as the crowd yells to stop him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIX

There was a wild upheaval in the crowd as the man who had left his opponent unconscious on the sidewalk down, starts to run as the crowd yells to stop him.

There were cries of "Some body grab him!" but no one attempted it, perhaps because of that peculiar inertia that seems to afflict crowds so often, perhaps because of fear, for he was a menacing figure, even in flight.

As he broke through the outer edge of the throng and passed Jimmy and Barry, perhaps some ten yards away from them, Jimmy got a glimpse of him with his disheveled hair, his battered nose and his collar and necktie askew.

Then he was gone, and when he had disappeared from sight Jimmy was assailed with the uneasy feeling that he should have tried to stop him. Something familiar about that fleeing figure raised the question whether it hadn't flashed before his eyes before.

They were picking the other man up from the gutter. He was conscious, but there was a deep cut in the back of his head where it had struck the curb. A policeman arrived, ordered the crowd back and rang for a patrol wagon.

The victim, unsteady on his feet, tottered and had to be helped in by the policeman.

"Come on, Barry," said Jimmy. "It's all over. Just a street fight between a couple of toughs."

Then he saw Thomas Fogarty, surveying the scene through amused eyes. A cigar stuck at a rakish angle from his mouth. He removed it to spit on the sidewalk, and then he laughed, a quiet, contemptuous laugh.

Jimmy touched his elbow. "Hello, Mr. Fogarty."

"Why, hello, Mr. Rand. Haven't seen you for a long time. Did you see it?" He jerked a casual thumb in the direction of the patrol. "Yes, I saw it, all right." He introduced Barry Colvin.

"Glad to know you, Mr. Colvin."

"Nice boys, weren't they?" Barry said with his ever-ready grin. "And how that little guy—the one who got away—could sock."

"Yeah," said Fogarty. "I've seen 'em before. One of 'em was Kid Divis. He used to be a pug. Used to be a pretty good preliminary boy, but he wouldn't train."

"Good Lord!" Jimmy groaned. "Now I know where I've seen that face before. When he ran past me I knew there was something familiar looking about him, but for the life of me I couldn't place it."

"It was his nose, of course. You said he was a fighter. I can place him now. It was that broken nose of his."

He turned to Barry. "That man was one of the pair that followed me that night. He was the one who came running with the gun. What a dumbbell I am! In my hands and out again—just like that!"

"If he'd had a cap on, I'd have known him in a minute, but he didn't, and his hair was all mussed and his collar torn. If I'd only had more time to think."

"What the devil are you talkin' about?" asked Fogarty through his lips that were tightly clenched on his cigar. And Jimmy told him the story of the encounter he had had.

"Does this Kid Divis, as you call him, travel around with a man by the name of Ike Jensen?" he asked Fogarty.

"Sure. Regular buddies. That is, they used to be. I haven't seen Jensen for some time. By the way, do you know Ike?"

"Slightly," said Jimmy, and he was about to add why he was so anxious portant. First," and he lifted his eyes to meet hers. "I hope you won't throw me out before I finish." His mouth widened in a grin as he spoke.

"Sit down, Mr. Colvin." Mary indicated a chair and smiled, for there was something about Barry Colvin's manner that was hard to resist, a contagion in his smile, a downright friendliness even, that in any other person might be considered impudence.

"First of all," he began, placing his hat on her desk, "let me repeat that I want to finish before you throw me out." He grinned again. "No, I'm not an insurance agent, and I'm not going to try to sell you a lot or an automobile. And I'm not a big silk stocking man from the east."

"Good heavens!" she cried in mock horror. "Then you must be a book agent."

"Wrong again," he laughed. "I'm a salesman, but not the ordinary kind. I'm what you'd call a specialist."

"No," she said, "You're a lawyer. I saw you when you were in here yesterday."

His eyes were suddenly serious as they sought hers. "I'm also a friend of Jimmy Rand," he remarked.

Then, at the quick, inquiring look and the troubled frown that his words produced, he threw up his hands, simulating despair.

"There you are, I knew it. You're getting ready to throw me out now for butting in on somebody else's business. Let me talk, will you, please? I didn't come from Jim. I'm no ambassador. If he knew I was here he'd probably give me a good licking—and he could do it, too."

Barry clasped his hands around his knee, lifting his foot several inches from the floor and gazing at it as he went on. "It's none of my business, Miss Lowell, but Jim Rand is the best friend I have in the world—and about the most stubborn individual in the world, too."

"I wish," she interrupted, "you'd say what you have to say. I don't want to appear rude, but it's difficult for me to—"

"I know," he put in. "I'm sorry. I'll get right down to the point, Miss Lowell. I'm going to tell you why Jim Rand came to Milwaukee. You don't know, do you?"

"No."

"Well, Jim Rand came here because his father was murdered several weeks ago and a clew led him to Milwaukee."

"Murdered?" she gasped. "Oh!"

"Yes, the most mysterious thing I ever heard of. I won't go into it all, because it's a long story. We don't know who did it and we can't imagine why it was done. But poor

Jim hasn't been himself, naturally, since the thing happened.

"Suspicion first pointed to a certain man in this city, but he proved an alibi. Then it pointed to a girl—a girl named Olga Maynard. Jim found her—he found her in a restaurant one night while you and he were together."

She was staring at him in wide-eyed amazement. "Then that was the—" she broke off. "Go ahead, Mr. Colvin."

"He met her the next night—in the same place. At first he tried to trap her into an admission. Then, when he told her the police were looking for her on a murder charge, she fainted dead away. Jim told me that you saw that, and that you quite naturally failed to understand it."

"Good heavens!" she cried in mock horror. "Then you must be a book agent."

"Wrong again," he laughed. "I'm a salesman, but not the ordinary kind. I'm what you'd call a specialist."

PTOMAINE POISONING CAUSES CHILD'S DEATH

Ptomaine poisoning from unknown food eaten by Ralph William Holtermann, 5-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holtermann, 330 W. Commercial-st, was the cause of the death of the child at about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. The little boy had been playing Monday afternoon until about 3 o'clock when he was called into the house by his mother for his afternoon nap. When he awoke at about 1 o'clock he complained of feeling ill. The child did not eat any food before he was put to bed and it is believed that he was poisoned by something he obtained while at play. None of the other members of the family were sick.

The survivors are his parents, two brothers, Vernon and Gordon, and his grandmother, Mrs. Meta Holtermann of Appleton. The funeral will be held at 1:30 Friday afternoon from the home and at 2 o'clock from Zion Lutheran church. Interment will be in Riverside. The Rev. Theodore Marti will conduct the services.

It has been estimated that one day's loss in London caused a loss of $1,750,000.

SEBORRHEA is the cause of most permanent Baldness. (1) Old glands become infected. Germ-laden substances clog the hair follicles. Hair becomes brittle and prematurely gray. (2) New hair growth is not stimulated. The hair bulb finally becomes inactive—but RARELY dies in the early stages. (3) Remove infection. Open up clogged follicles. Stimulate dormant hair bulbs to renewed activity and the hair grows again.

Grow Hair this New Way:
An entirely new method of scalp treatment has been perfected. It is totally unlike anything you have ever seen or heard of before. Its simplicity will delight you. Its results amaze you. But one treatment a week for most hair troubles. There is no after-odor. No greasy effect.

Guarantee In Writing
Now we have found a way of combating Seborrhea. A new method of stimulating hair growth. This treatment will stop Falling Hair. Must destroy Dandruff. Must even grow hair—or money back. There are no strings to this guarantee. It is in writing. It appears in every package. You are fully protected.

Seborrhea
Well may you wonder at such a broad guarantee. But we have studied hair troubles scientifically—and discovered some amazing facts. We found that the hair bulbs seldom die from natural causes. They don't come out with the hair. But frequently they become weakened. Seborrhea is most often the cause. WOMEN, TOO

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT—CONTINUED

Now, a complication has entered into your home. You have just got rid of the pearls and something more ominous seems to be bearing down on you. I am sure that Paula Perier is making a dead set at John and I think that Mrs. Atherton is conniving with the whole business. Just why Miss Perier should have picked out my son when it looks as though she could have any unmatched man in America is something I cannot explain, except by the fact that she is not only a very designing woman but a very wicked one.

She comes to the house every day with Mrs. Atherton. She goes directly to the nursery and either stays there until Mrs. Atherton gets through her business with Jack—something else of which I do not approve—or else she takes Hannah and the children for a long ride returning just in time to pick up Mrs. Atherton at noon.

I asked Hannah the other day if you had given permission for her to take the children out. She answered "Mrs. Prescott has done so, Ma-jam."

Of course I do not know whether she is telling the truth or not, for John has been so busy with Mrs. Atherton the doctors and nurses for the last few days that I've hated to disturb him. I do not think that John has seen Miss Perier here at the house yet, but you know she was with him when he had the accident. But I am sure she is laying her plans to see him in the nursery in the near future. A woman never looks so fascinating as when she has a child in her arms—especially if she is as beautiful as Miss Perier.

Yesterday afternoon I heard someone talking in the children's room and knowing that Hannah was out at the moment I softly opened the door and stepped in. Much to my consternation and surprise I found Miss Perier with little Jack on her lap. I could see that Sydnie was asleep in his little bed. I knew that she did not see me, for I had opened the door from the hall that has the portieres drawn across on the nursery side. There was a little crack between the curtains through which I could see the picture.

I heard Miss Perier say as if continuing a conversation "You love your mother very much Jackie."

Adventures Of The Twins

SNITCHER SNATCH HAS TO RUN

Mister Tingaling and the Twins left the hive of the honey bees and the friendly bees buzzed a good-bye. "Good-bye" called the Queen Bee. I hope that Mrs. Tingaling will have the honey. And tell her she can have all she wants, and it won't make her fat."

Away started Mister Tingaling and the Twins, pulling the square honey comb along like a little wagon.

"Let's sing a song" said the little fairysman. "I'm feeling happier than I have for six weeks. I feel just like singing."

"What shall we sing?" said the Twins.

But before anybody could answer there was a loud buzzing and looking back they beheld a large wasp setting himself right on the honey and starting to eat it.

"Get out!" shouted Mister Tingaling.

"I won't," said the wasp. "I like honey and I'm going to have some. If you put me off, I'll sting you."

"Oh, then just help yourself!" said the fairysman. "I guess you can't eat much anyway. Come on, children. Don't pay any attention to the cross old thing. Let's sing."

What Are You Doing For Your Puny Child?

For weak, frail, under-developed children—and especially those that have rickets and need a sure builder that promises the growth of teeth and bones and liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date chemists advise McCoys' Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Children love them as they do candy because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at Schmitz's Drug Store and all druggists—but be sure and ask for McCoys—the original and genuine.

Give them to the sickly, frail child for 30 days and if they don't help—wonderfully, your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.

ORGANIZE EIGHT-TEAM SOFTBALL LEAGUE HERE

Leading Squads Of 1925
Circuits Enter Teams In New Twilight Ball Loop

Wissman of Bankers Elected
Chairman; Prepare Final
Schedule Monday Night

Plans for an eight-team softball league in Appleton this summer were completed at a meeting held at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Seven teams had representatives at the meeting and it was decided to start work immediately on the league which will be sponsored by the association. An eighth team will be added within the next week, it was said, and work on the schedule was started immediately, leaving a place for the other squad. Teams represented at the meeting were the Meyer Press, Y. M. C. A. Bankers and Post-Crescents of the 1925 Twilight loop, the Legion squad of the 1925 Lark loop; and two new teams, Basing Sports and the Interlake and Paper Co.

John Wissman of the Bankers was elected league chairman; A. P. Jensen, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., secretary and Earl McCourt of the Interlake Co., treasurer. The rules and schedule committee consisted of Messrs. Wissman and McCourt and Lester Hartzel of the Post-Crescents squad. The committee met immediately after the meeting and prepared a tentative schedule and rules which will be submitted to the representatives at the next meeting at 7:30 Monday evening, at the Y. M. C. A. Play probably will be started by the latter part of May.

Of the teams entered the Y. M. C. A., Bankers and Post-Crescents were the three leading squads in the 1925 Twilight loop. The "Y" crew won the banner with the P-C men second, but the race was not decided until the final game. The Bankers finished third.

The Meyer Press squad, improving greatly in the last weeks of play, was a menace to the leaders in the Twilight loop. The Legion won the Lark loop banner with ease and then won the city title by whipping the "Y" crew in a playoff. Basing's crew played some in dependent ball and won most of its games. Several members played with the Footfitters in the Twilight loop. Little is known of the strength of the Interlake squad, though plenty of good ball players are employed there. Many played in the two loops last year and "Mickey" McCourt, their leader, played the third sack for the champion "Y" team.

Red and White Will Enter
Valley Track Competition
for 1st Time Here May 15

Fond du Lac — Athletic Director E. D. Fruth is working every evening in developing a track team to represent Fond du Lac high school in the annual Fox River Valley conference track meet under the auspices of Lawrence college at Appleton a week from Saturday. This will be Fondy's first year in track competition against other conference schools.

The Red and White athletes will compete against seven other schools in the conference which have had track every year for several seasons past. Fruth will send quite a delegation to Appleton and the locals are working hard for the meet.

Don Hyde of Appleton and Timmer of Sheboygan are joint holders of the conference record in the 100-yard dash, each negotiating the distance in 11 seconds. Danny Peppard, the Manitowoc Flash, has been doing the century consistently in practice meets in 11 seconds. Peppard will have a chance to show his stuff in the Manitowoc-Sheboygan dual meet Saturday. The two Green Bay schools and Marinette will hold triangular meets Saturday. Coach Fruth will hold another class meet in which all the in-

THREE BEST NET
TEAMS OF STATE TO BATTLE HERE

Racine, Milwaukee, Appleton
Fight for 1926 State Volleyball Title

Appleton volleyball fans will receive the treat of the year here Saturday evening when the three best squads of the state, Appleton, Racine and Milwaukee, clash for the 1926 title. The teams battled to a tie at the meet at Milwaukee two weeks ago and then fought to another tie in a special play-off round. This round lasted from 7 o'clock in the evening until after 12 and yet official reports show that not one of the enthusiastic audience which attended the meet could bear to leave until the last game was played. The audience consisted of about 200 persons. When the teams started the last few games, some of the members were too exhausted to hit the ball over the net, reports said. Each had played at least 16 tough games.

Appleton beat Racine and lost to Milwaukee in the regular going and lost to Racine and beat Milwaukee in the playoff.

The first Y. M. C. A. state volleyball tourney was held at Madison in 1922. Racine, with a team far superior to the remainder of the state teams, won an easy victory. For the next two years, the Belle team again coppered the honors, in 1923 at Racine and in 1924 at Fond du Lac. Milwaukee was a runnerup in each of the three meets and it wasn't until 1924 at Fondy that Appleton made any kind of a showing, finishing third.

In 1925 as host to the meet Appleton upset the dope bucket by whipping the strong Racine team, three-time champs, but Milwaukee took the edge off the triumph by beating the edge victors in a close match, to give them second place. The Cream City men took first and Racine, third. Milwaukee papers claim that when the three teams which are so evenly matched in every respect that they could not break a tie in a whole evening of play meet here Saturday night for the Wisconsin championship, fans will see the three best squads in the midwest in action.

PRIEBE SIGNS WITH APPLETON BALL CLUB

Harvey Priebe, star outfielder of Appleton baseball teams in the Fox River Valley loop league, a few years ago, will don an Appleton uniform this year and try out for a berth on the local valley loop squad. Manager C. O. Batez said Wednesday. Priebe still is a good fielder and slugger and his all-around game is in good condition. He probably will work out with the Batez men this week.

To make up for the shortage of practices of the last two weeks, the team will work out every day this week when the weather is good. Work was started Wednesday and Thursday evening at 6 o'clock another practice will be held.

High school team candidates will compete for the squad that will be taken to Appleton.

The conference record in the 220-yard dash is 25 seconds made by Jim of Sheboygan last year. Schultz of Manitowoc holds the mark for the 440-yard dash in 57.2 seconds. Bill of Oshkosh has the shot-put record of 41 feet and 6 inches. Rudick of West Green Bay has tossed the discus 105 feet 6 1/2 inches. Manitowoc high holds the record for the half-mile relay—45.8 seconds.

Short Leg Helps Locke Break Sprint Records

Lincoln, Neb. — One short leg has and forget track after this season," he said. "I'll probably play baseball for recreation because I like it better than track."

Naturally, these words came as no balm to Henry E. Schultz, track coach at the school who has tutored Locke in how to crack world's records.

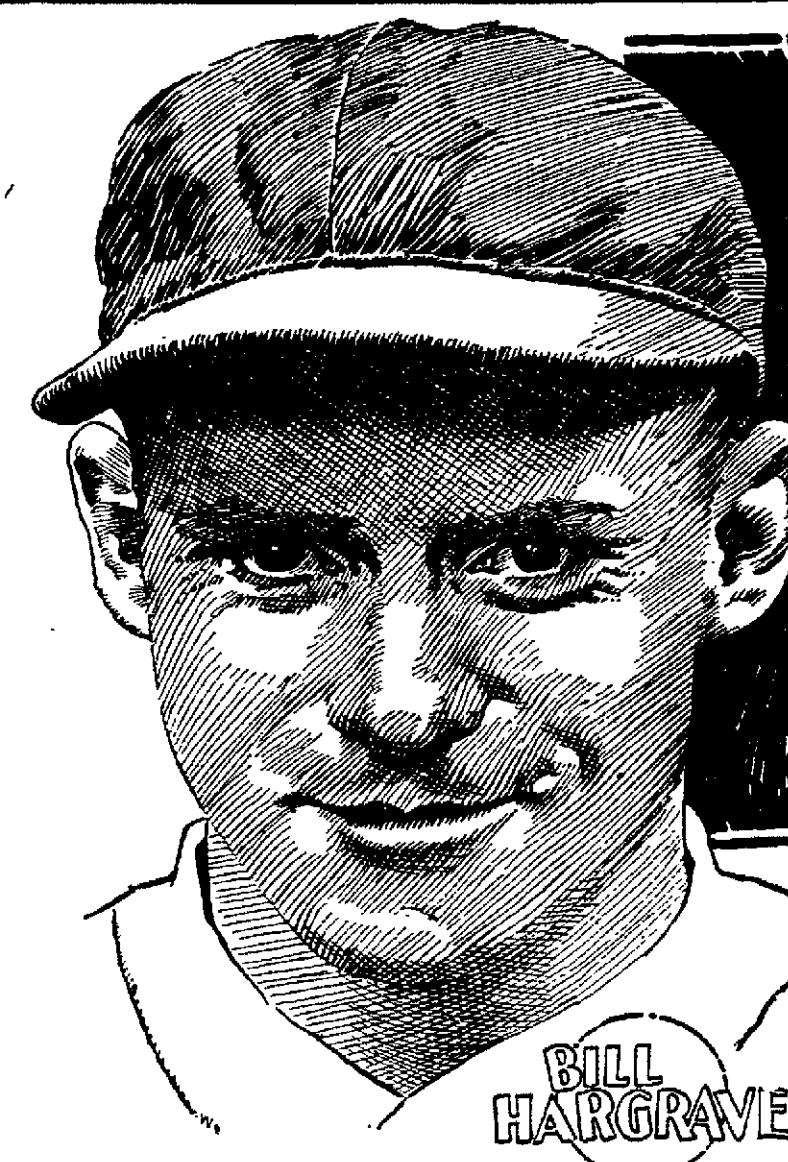

"That boy has more speed than any human alive if he would but turn it loose," Schultz said. He predicted that if Locke would continue running all dash records were endangered.

The mid-western star admits two failings. One is that he is inclined to view each meet pessimistically and the second is that he derives great satisfaction out of getting into the lead then turning around to watch other runners attempting to match his burst of speed.

An attempt is being made now to have Locke's record breaking performance in the 220 yard dash set Saturday—made official. There is question concerning the legality of the race asasmuch as there was a breeze at his back. The 100 yard record was not allowed on account of a breeze.

The four classes of Appleton high school probably will hold the annual interclass track and field meet at the old Lawrence field early next week. While the dates are much later than usual the bad weather and conflicting events have caused the postponement. Practically every other valley conference high school as well as Neenah already have had their meets. If the meet is held next week it will be but a few days before the conference meet at Whiting field and will give Coach McAuliffe a weakened in the jumps with Mac out and Coach Denny is striving to work other men into the jobs.

Two good high jumpers, Captain Stair and Hippke, will be the Blue hopes in this event. However, last time week against Oshkosh Normal both were handicapped by other events in which they are heavy point winners coming at the same time as the jump. Hippke was forced to work on the weights at the time and never recovered the jump, while Stair, a star dashman, had to run a hard "220" and then get back to his jumping.

In the pole vault, Nason, a vet and Van Winder, a fresh, will have to uphold Blue honors. These men tied with McConnell last week but it was not jumped off. Now they will have a chance to prove what they can do against stronger competition than Oshkosh Normal. In the broad jump, Nason will be against the sole defender of Blue honors with Stair and Barnard to aid.

With McConnell gone Bayer is the only high hurdler in the school and Denny may have to use Doug Hyde in this event if the meet is close.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

JIM BARNES — DISTRACT CAUSED BY TIMING

The secret of getting distance lies in proper timing of the stroke; that is, to have the club-head traveling at its highest speed just as it comes into the ball. This speed is acquired by a gradual acceleration on the downswing, aided by a forward snap of the wrists in the path the hands are traveling just before the club-head meets the ball.

Possibly you may find a good tip in what is frequently referred to as hitting through the ball, by which is meant an attempt to attain the maximum speed with the club-head at a spot an inch or two in front of where the ball lies. I believe the player who tries to hit the ball very hard as a rule instinctively slacks off a little too soon, by that I mean the player who is conscious of a hitting attempt rather than a swing. So it might help you to try to give the club-head its maximum speed at a point just beyond where the ball lies. Many a poor player has been turned into a good one by this plan.

I need hardly tell you, I suppose, that an average drive of 225 yards is a good one.
